

November 1, 2008

To whom it may concern,

Gregory Allen is one of the most interesting individuals that I have had the pleasure to meet. He has a keen sense to details and perfection. This combination coupled to a gift of photographic memory with intelligence for chemistry, mathematics and computer systems, (hardware and software) is an asset. His photographic memory goes beyond the ability to recall detail information, he is able to rapidly apply the information to solve problems. This is a tremendous gift.

Gregory is a very caring individual with extraordinary talents. He has difficulties addressing problems when instructions are lacking or incomplete. When faced with this situation Gregory's talent for perfection reacts and he becomes frustrated. Gregory takes pride in doing an outstanding job in the least amount of time. Having to contend with inferior conditions at times can be difficult for him. Gregory also enjoys role-playing to situations that allow him display additional talents, i.e., designing and constructing his own costumes.

I hope and pray that Gregory finds a place where he can contribute to the full extent of his capabilities. He has a lot to share.

Fredrick M. Zickert